Vivaldi Four Seasons

We are still listening to the music by Antonio Vivaldi.

The music is made of four pieces, named after the four seasons.

The Seasons

Which season have we listened to so far?

Spring

Winter

The bottom row of the image features two photographs of the same park path. The left photo shows the path in autumn, with trees displaying yellow and orange leaves and fallen leaves scattered on the grass. The right photo shows the path in winter, covered in a thick layer of snow with bare trees and footprints in the snow. A grey arrow-shaped label containing the word 'Winter' is overlaid on the right photo.

The Seasons

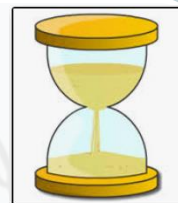

Today we shall be listening to...

Autumn

The Four Seasons

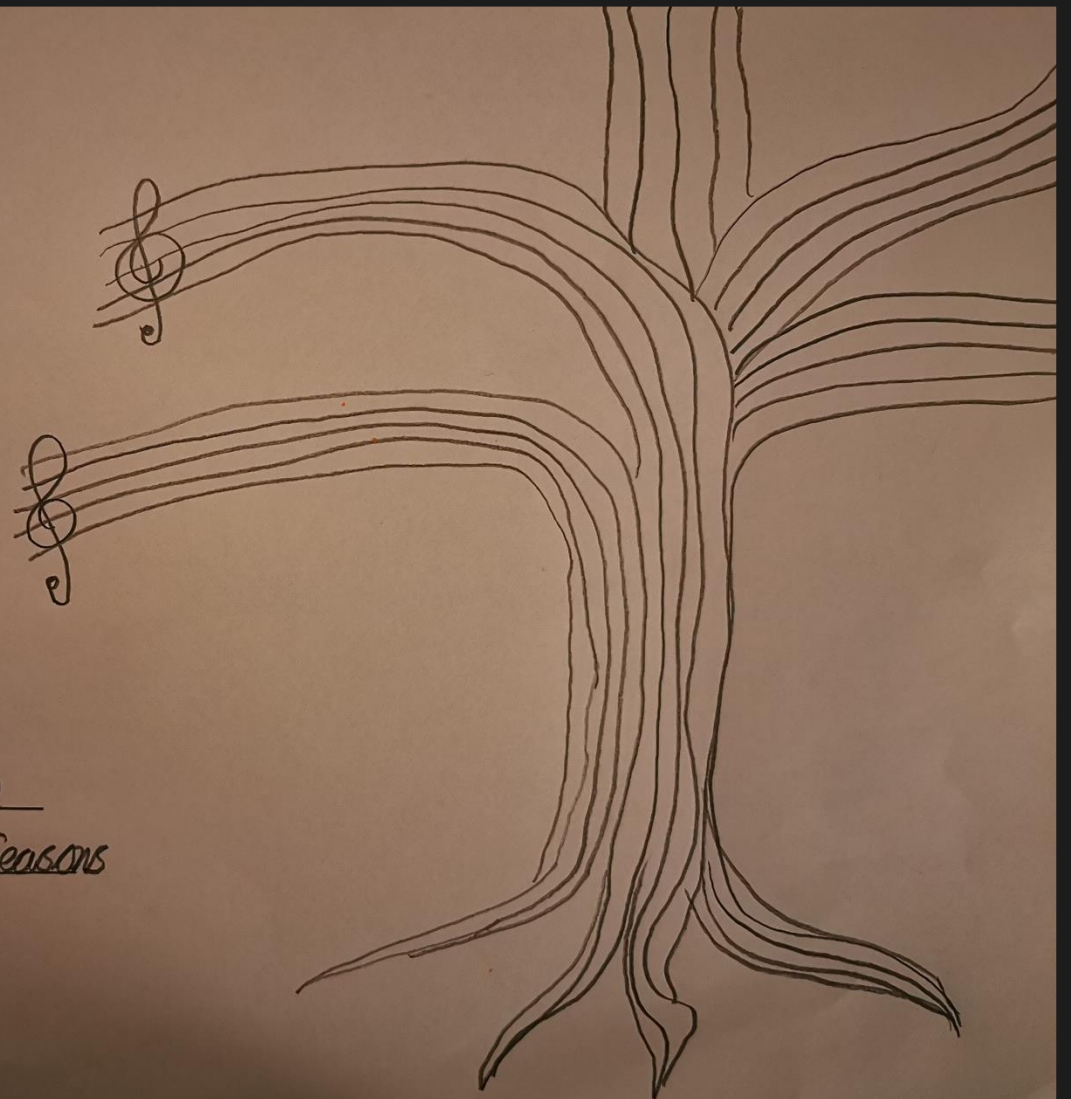

Listen to the music...

Stand up, ready to listen to the music. You are going to be conductors again. Remember, hold your arms up high, move them in time, perhaps one arm moves to one instrument, whilst the other arm moves to further instruments in the orchestra.

Whilst we listen again, use your printed task sheet or draw your own, Autumn Music Tree. Use Autumn colours and add leaves that represent the music notes. You can use finger paints and dab on the leaf notes or coloured pencils/pens to draw them on.
