Last week, we talked about several of the reasons for using a comma in a sentence -

1. Commas to separate independent clauses when they are joined by any of these seven coordinating conjunctions: and, but, for, or, nor, so, yet.
2. Commas after introductory a) clauses, b) phrases, or c) words that come before the main clause.
3. A pair of commas in the middle of a sentence to enclose words that are not essential to the meaning of the sentence.

Today, we are focusing on commas AFTER subordinate clauses. Most subordinate clauses start with a subordinate conjunction (ISAWAWABUB)

Why is AFTER written this way? Because you only use a comma when the subordinate clause comes first.

For example -

If I can find my wallet, we can all go for ice cream.
We can all go for ice cream if I can find my wallet.
