WAGOLL

Dear Diary,

My heart aches for Monty as he is becoming more miserable and dejected with each passing day. He was once a plucky, outgoing penguin full of enthusiasm. Yesterday, I tried making Monty laugh... I failed. Instead of laughing, he slowly waddled into the corner, his head bowed. He looked as sad as a dog with no home.

My mum, who also has noticed Monty looking lonely, says that it's because he wants to be with his own kind. I want him to have another friend; a companion who he can rely on. I wonder if I can help? Maybe then he won't as lonesome.
