

Welcome to Year 6 Spelling and Grammar

The lesson will begin at 10:00 am

Turn your camera and microphone off please

Monday 1st February, 2021.

I will be able to identify main and subordinate clauses.

Do Now:

The main clause is underlined in the sentence below.

Explain how you know that this is the main clause.

Beyond the trees, far into the distance, rose the snow-capped hills of the Pennines.

Clue:

Take the main clause out of the sentence. Does it make sense standing on its own?

I will be able to identify main and subordinate clauses.

Underline the main clause in the sentence below.

Leila's grandfather, who fought in Germany during the Second World War, had walked with a limp ever since.

I will be able to identify main and subordinate clauses.

Subordinate clauses always add to the information that is already given in the main clause. They don't give a new point- the information should be linked.

I will be able to identify main and subordinate clauses.

My sister loves skateboarding...

Subordinating Conjunctions

after	although	as	because
before	if	once	provided (that)
since	that	though	unless
until / till	when	where	whereas whenever	wherever	whether	while

I will be able to identify main and subordinate clauses.

Add a pair of commas to the sentence below to separate the main and subordinate clause.

The garden, which was in full bloom, was being enjoyed by the family at the BBQ.
