Do you think the end of Page 28 could act as a cliff-hanger. Are these generally found in non-fiction? Why?

Despite the pressures of leadership, Shackleton knew it was vital to keep the crew's morale high. On Midwinter's Day (21 June), the crew celebrated with speeches, songs, toasts and a rousing rendition of the national anthem.

A severe blizzard a few weeks later saw winds of between 60 and 90 miles an hour, and Dog Town was buried under 5 feet of snow.

Finally, in early July, the sun began to return.

As the ice floe continued to buckle, provisions were made for emergency evacuation of the ship. New kennels were built on the upper deck, and tensions mounted as the pressure around the Endurance continued to grind ice against the hull. Soon after, loud cracks were heard from the ice as pressure forced huge blocks up into the air, and the dogs were hurled back onto the ship.
